

Chapter 2
Communication & Co-operation, Communication pyramid, Pareto principles, Communication & Image and Communication Barrier

Communication and Co-operation.

Ethical persuasion should respect the rights, goals and emotions of everyone concerned.

Creating co-operation should not involve the overriding of people's needs and getting whatever you want at any cost.

WHY DON'T PEOPLE CO-OPERATE?

- Indirect opposition
- Justifiable opposition
- Unjustified opposition

Fun Fact

Interpersonal Communication.

1. Aggression
2. Passivity
3. Manipulativeness
4. Assertiveness

The first three have flows:

- ineffective
- stressful
- counterproductive

Example:

- Would you....
- This would mean....
- I would feel....
- What do you think?

The Communication Pyramid.

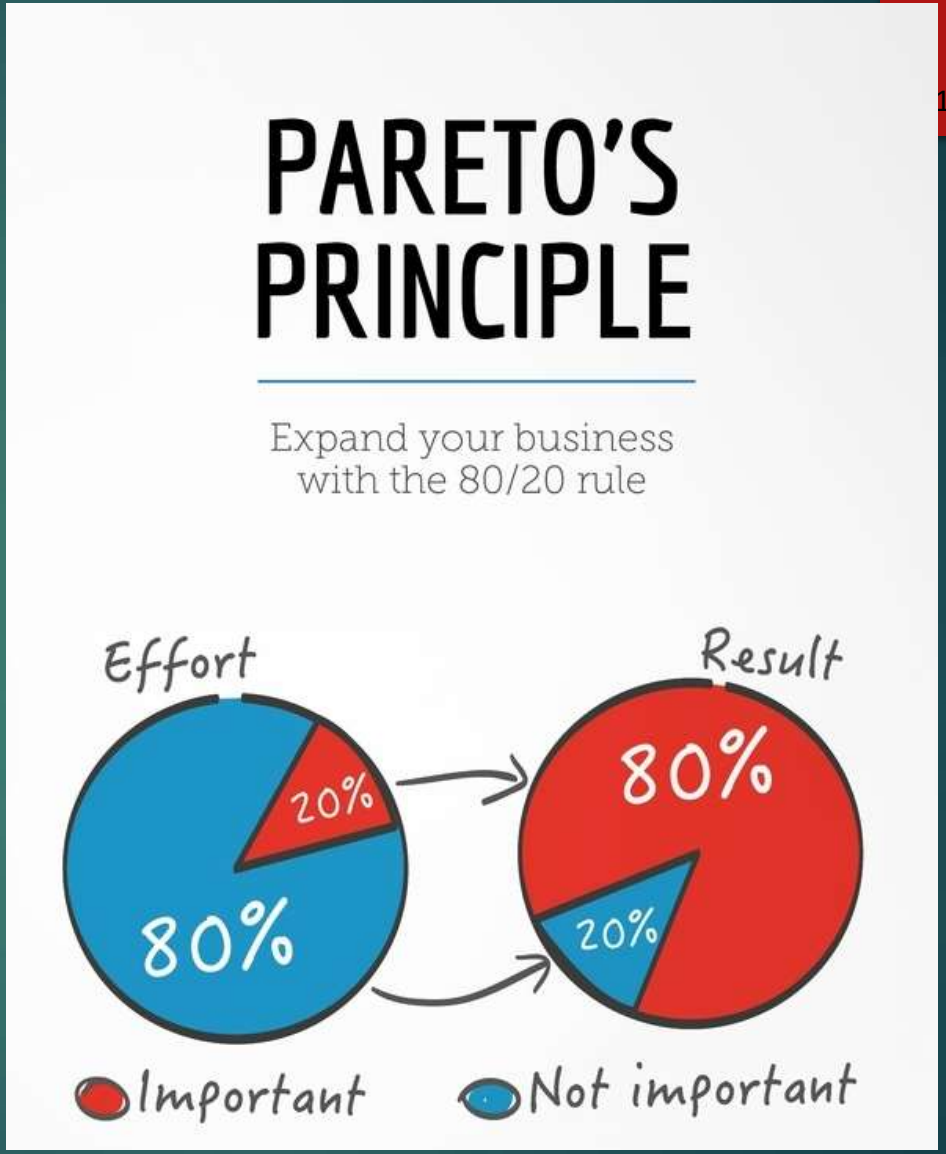

A complex network of attitudes, beliefs, prejudices, assumptions, ideas, associations, emotions and memories.

The Pareto principle can often apply to communication, as well as many other aspects of business, with up to 80% of a message being contributed by the receiver of the message.

Activity

How can we use Pareto's Principle in Communication?

Communication and Image.

SELF IMAGE	PROJECTED IMAGE	EXTERNAL IMAGE
I think I really am	I want others to see	Others actually see
• A person who exerts major control and influence	A really important link in the company	A bossy secretary with an inflated view of their own importance
• Struggling with some personal relationships at work	A high achiever	An abrasive manager
• A person who has to work twice as hard as everyone else to be certain of success	A hard worker who can handle any given task	A workaholic who pushes themself twice as hard as necessary
• Struggling entrepreneur	Successful tycoon	Battling to survive
• Discount retailer	Market leader Price setter	Alternate, secondary supplier

Purpose of Business Communication

- Basic for effective leadership
- Sharing ideas and information
- Rational decision making
- Performance of managerial functions
- Developing company's public image
- Helping delegation of authority and responsibility
- Explaining policies and programs
- Basis of information

Barriers to effective communication

- Sender Related Barriers
- Receiver Related Barriers
- Sender & Receiver Related Barriers
- Situation related Barriers

Sender Related Barriers

- Lack of communication goals
- Absence of communication skills
- Wrong choice of media
- Abstracting: It may be understood as an act of focusing attention on some details and omitting others.
- Absence of interpersonal sensitivity: In describing a situation unfavorable aspects are emphasized.
- Inconsistent behavior: Insensitive individuals often use a language which is offensive to the receiver.
- Differing frames of reference: Lack of shared experience may result in miscommunication.

Receiver Related Barriers

- Negative attitudes and opinions: Wrong personal attitudes and opinions of receiver often act as barriers to effective communication.
- Wrong inferences: Conclusions based on facts are called inferences.
- Poor retention: An Average listener can retain only one-half of the message being heard.
- Non-evaluation of the message due to distrust of the receiver: The receiver has a tendency to evaluate the sender and the message.

Receiver Related Barriers

Selective and poor listening: Selective listening refers to the people's tendency to hear only what they want.

Perceptions: Stereotyping refers to the tendency to categories people into a single class on the basis of some trait. Projection is a perceptual process by which we try to attribute our own thoughts and feelings to others.

Lack of responsive feedback: An inappropriate response hurts the sender's ego or feelings.

Sender & Receiver Related Barriers

- Status consciousness: If the sender is excited, nervous and perplexed, he will not be in a position to organize his message properly.
- Emotions: Emotions, be it either from the side of the sender or the receiver, may create a barrier.
- Interpretation of words: A single word that is used by the sender with an intended meaning may convey different meaning to the receiver.

Situation related Barriers

- Noise
- Communication climate
- Distance
- Mechanical Failure
- Time pressure
- Information overload: The receiver cannot accommodate a heavy load of message from the sender.
- Jargon: Each ``profession has its special vocabulary. When it is used outside the group, it becomes unintelligible.

Ways to Improve Communication Effectiveness

- Communication training
- Enhancing language knowledge
- Providing communication equipment's
- Appropriate organizational structure
- Use of informal communication
- Developing interpersonal trust
- Listening
- Effective feedback
- Nondirective counseling
- Nonverbal communication
- Motivation

thank you merci danke 謝謝 gracias teşekkür ederim ngiyabonga obrigado dziękuję
bedankt
go raibh maith agat terima kasih kop khun krap sukriya dakujem arigatô grazie tapadh leat mochchakkeram mauruuru hvala sagolun спасибо рахмат Баярлалаа dank je merci gracias
danke obrigado dziękuję
bedankt
go raibh maith agat
terima kasih
kop khun krap
sukriya
dakujem
arigatô
grazie
teşekkür ederim
ngiyabonga
tapadh leat mochchakkeram
mauruuru hvala sagolun спасибо рахмат Баярлалаа dank je merci